

Chapter Three

1. Vocabulary: A collection of beauties

Write a paragraph describing a first glimpse of the women in the harem using these words:

luxury fragrance fountain lounging cushions silken abundance sumptuously.

2. Questions and More Questions

Angeline was sent to live in the residence of babbling women and children without speaking a word of their language or even understanding what a harem was.

- a) If you were her, what would be the five most important questions you would ask?
- b) Now compare your questions with three other students. After each comparison, revise your list until you feel it has the five best questions.

3. Places of Worship

Angeline had never seen a mosque before. “The beauty of its outline against the deep blue sky was such that she stopped and stared.”

- a) A collection: Begin taking photos or illustrating pictures of the places of worship in your area.
- b) Find out: the type of building; its name; the type of religion practiced there.
- c) Include these facts in your collection.

With your parents’ permission invite a friend to visit your place of worship.

4. The Bath Battle

An author might use action or humor to break up a lot of serious information.

You are the director of the movie, Angeline. Your assignment is to bring the bath scene to life (from “the woman who” to “she began to laugh”). With four friends:

- a) Write the script.
- b) Block out the actions.
- c) Act it out.
